

Baltimore's Tremonts offers meal deals during a down economy.

A landmark hotel in downtown Baltimore offers drastically reduced prices on Mondays in April at their restaurant, deli and café to help the community weather this economic storm.

Baltimore's Tremonts (<http://www.tremonts.com>), the parent company of Tug's Bar & Grille, Grand Café and Plaza Deli in Baltimore is offering its customers half off of every menu item on Mondays in April with a valid coupon. While that is a deal in itself, the most noteworthy value is being able to use the coupon all day. Essentially a person can get a breakfast sandwich at the Plaza Deli, a panini for lunch at the Grand Café and bring a friend, client or significant other back for a steak dinner at Tug's and receive 50% of the bill each time. Menus and restaurant information can be found on <http://www.tremontsuitehotels.com/dining>.

This promotion is the first in a series in which the Tremonts is offering discounts or giveaways in their restaurants. "We want to offer our customers the opportunity to dine out at a time when their budgets may not otherwise allow," said Jennifer Fordham, Marketing Manager of the Tremonts. "It is important to give back to the community who have been loyal to us for so many years."

The half off event has already created a buzz in the surrounding area. A customer has said, "I've been wanting to try the crab cakes at Tug's and now with this deal, I have no excuse not to." The manager of the Deli has said that employees of local businesses were busy cutting their coupons for their specific days after receiving their email.

Promotional events are publicized via email blasts, handout flyers, inserts in local papers and by the Downtown Partnership of Baltimore.

Baltimore's Tremonts is the Plaza Hotel, Tremont Grand and the Plaza Deli, Grand Café and Tug's Bar & Grille. The hotel has been a Baltimore landmark serving the community for over 25 years. The Tremont Grand, which is connected to the Plaza hotel, is a restored and renovated historic venue which offers versatile meeting and event space.
